ABOUT BNI

Baltimore Neighborhoods, Inc., was founded in 1959 to work for stable integrating neighborhoods and equal housing opportunity for all. For more than four decades BNI has been fighting to root out housing discrimination and to build a just and harmonious society. Baltimore Neighborhoods now serves the entire state of Maryland and is known as one of the foremost fair housing organizations in the nation. This book tells the story of the trials and triumphs of BNI's first forty years.

ABOUT THE WRITER

Michael Mark is professor emeritus of music and former Dean of the Graduate School at Towson University in Baltimore. He is the author of several books on music education history and of chapters in other books, and numerous articles in a variety of music journals. Mark has served on the editorial committees of several research journals, is a Fulbright scholar, and a consultant to arts education organizations. A former member of the BNI Board of Directors, he spent his first year of retirement researching and writing this book in honor of the organization's fortieth anniversary.
